

Maintaining liaison and good relations with foreign law enforcement authorities for your company overseas and with the US embassy. Some basic things to consider:

-have you met with local embassy staff and is the Regional Security Officer (RSO), who is assigned to each US embassy, aware of the presence of your company in country? Is he or she aware of what your company does and how many employees are assigned? What issues can the RSO suggest might surface as a result of your company's presence in country? Can the RSO introduce you to some key local law enforcement personnel as contacts? Can the RSO brief you on past problems between the host country government and US companies operating in country?
